With over 20 years of administrative management experience across a variety of industries, including the arts, law, finance, banking and executive search, she has worked in different organizations across various sectors.

Darcy has provided positive reinforcement and practical insights to a wide range of individuals (from millennials to mid-lifers) in career transition. She brings her experience, knowledge and expertise to support her clients in actively choosing to be the best version of themselves in all situations, especially the challenging ones.

Her coaching approach includes equal parts humour, common sense and intuition in support of individuals connecting with their innate bravery and stretching beyond their all too familiar comfort zones to unlock their full potential.

Darcy has an Honours BA, English Literature from the University of Toronto. She completed her coach training with the Coaches Training Institute in 2016 and has earned an ACC coaching accreditation from the International Coach Federation (ICF).

Darcy is a certified facilitator of LEGO® SERIOUS PLAY® method and as well as certified in effectiveness coaching using the Emerson Suite, a web-based mobile app of management tools for leader-managers.

She is trained in the use of the Birkman Method and the Facet5 personality assessment tool with experience in other assessments and tools.

Watch carefully the magic that occurs when you give a person just enough comfort to be themselves. - Atticus
